SAYS JERSEY CHIEF

EXECUTIVE IS BLUFFING

Trying to Make Good on Pre-Election Promises, Says Anti-Saloon League Attorney.

Newark, N. J., Dec. 25.—The contemplated attack on the constitutionality of the Federal prohibition amendment announced yesterday by Gov.-elect Edwards of New Jersey, after he takes office Jan. 1, and his intention to induce the legislature to legalize the sale of beer and light wines in the State, were characterized today as "bluff" by G. Howland Munroe, attorney for the New Jersey Anti-Saloon League.

"What Mr. Edwards is saying," Munroe declared, "is simply an attempt on his part to make good some of the rash promises he made during his campaign. It is extremely doubtful if Mr. Edwards, a Democrat, will have the support of the Republican Legislature in his fight on the constitutionality of the 'dry' law."

"If such a fight is started, it will be up to the Government to defend it as it has done in other cases. The Anti-Saloon League will have no part in the fight, except that our national counsel Wayne R. Wheeler, I suppose, will be permitted to file a brief as he has done in similar attacks."

"We are hoping," he added, "that the United States Supreme Court will pass on these questions at an early date, and it may be that decisions will be handed down before Mr. Edwards starts the action he proposes. We do not regard his bluff as a serious matter at all."

Twenty-five years ago a slip of a girl knocked at the door of the big residence at 45 Perrin Street, Roxbury, and timidly applied for a chance to do housework or any odd jobs that
